Exprivia has submitted a binding offer for the acquisition of the Aurora Company Division belonging to the Siemens S.p.A Healthcare sector.

The acquisition will allow the enlargement and accomplishment of the Exprivia Health market sector

23 March 2009. Exprivia SpA - listed in the MTA Star segment of the Italian Stock Exchange (XPR.MI) – has submitted a binding offer to Siemens S.p.A. for the acquisition of the Aurora Company Division (belonging to the healthcare sector).

This Corporate division is focused on the sale licence fee and service delivery and assistance of the “Aurora Web” proprietary product, a HIS (Hospital Information System) integrated system for the hospitals global electronic management such as the emergency, the out-patient care and the hospitalization.

Siemens is present in this market segment since the 1995, at first with the GST client/server product and afterwards with the development in the web architecture through Aurora web, has enabled the customer base acquisition of around 30 health and hospital top corporations distributed all over the national country.

Aurora Corporate Division is formed by 21 employees distributed between Rome and Milan head-sites and it has registered approx. 3.6 Million Euro revenues with a pro-forma Ebitda margin estimate between 13% and 15%.

Exprivia will globally invest, for the Aurora acquisition, 2,1 Million Euro (to be adjusted depending on the unbalanced transfer asset) with a cash payment, drawing on the ordinary cash flow, therefore without the opening of a new line of credit.

The Aurora acquisition is a further plug of the Exprivia development strategic plan in the Health market sector. In fact, thanks to this company division contribution, Exprivia fortifies its competences and solutions within the health sector, allowing its offering accomplishment.

As reported by the Exprivia S.p.A chairman and managing director Domenico Favuzzi “This will allow Exprivia to face, through an ever-increasing effectiveness, the challenge of the health ICT market, among these the growing recurrence of medical health information systems full-outsourcing, the handling of the clinical hazard through the IT solutions and the problems related to the sanitary costs control”.

Exprivia, integrating in its offer the Siemens technologies, the know-how and highly skilled personnel, represents for German multinational a reliable partner with the pertinent competences in order to grant to its users the business development and continuity. This business deal will
