

EXPRIVIA ACHIEVES CYBERSECURITY MADE IN EUROPE CERTIFICATION

Cybersecurity Made in Europe is a seal of quality for European companies operating in the cybersecurity sector. The certification is promoted by the European Security Organization (ECISO) and awarded in Italy by the National Committee for Research in Cybersecurity.

12 September 2022. Exprivia – an international group specialising in Information and Communication Technology – achieves Cybersecurity Made in Europe certification.

This is a certification promoted by the European Security Organization (ECISO), which in Italy is awarded by the National Committee for Research in Cybersecurity.

The seal of quality aims to certify the provision of reliable security solutions in accordance with ENISA (European Union Agency for Cybersecurity) guidelines and in compliance with the data privacy requirements defined by the GDPR (General Data Protection Regulation) and is awarded to companies active in the field of Cybersecurity with registered office and main market in Europe and Great Britain.

“Exprivia has always supported initiatives aimed at improving Europe’s technical and functional independence in the field of Cybersecurity,” stated Domenico Raguseo, Exprivia’s Cybersecurity Director. “Achieving this certification, on the one hand, is part of the group’s commitment to providing its customers with quality services, and on the other hand, it represents a tangible contribution to cybersecurity in the European territory”.

Cybersecurity Made in Europe certification allows Exprivia to become part of a catalogue of high-quality European cybersecurity services and technology providers.
